Roberto-

If it is not you, please redirect me, but fuel – the lack of – is becoming a huge issue right now in the Houston area. We need to be placed on the list for receiving critical diesel fuel deliveries. There is typically a governmental distribution network that is put in to place for emergencies like this – where we can arrange to have fuel delivered to our labs. Unsure if that is true for this response. Even if shore power for us at some point – it will be difficult for us to find an electrician available to “hook us up” if we can at the R6 lab.

Can you link me up with someone at logistics?

Many thanks!
